YOUR CONTRIBUTIONS CHANGE LIVES

Every day Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System strives to improve the quality of life in the Upstate of South Carolina. I chose a career in healthcare to serve others and develop healthier communities.

From preventive health outreach to helping families through sudden illness, our mission is to provide excellence in health. Donors to the Spartanburg Regional Foundation are a vital part of our mission.

Donations fund, health screenings for the uninsured, new technology and infrastructure that will broaden Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System's spectrum of care.

For the past two years, a Spartanburg teen has donated money to Gibbs Cancer Center & Research Institute cancer patients in memory of her grandfather. Last summer, a gentleman donated to a continuing education fund for our nurses to thank them for the attentive and loving care he received. There are thousands of similar stories where people donated and helped others in need.

Donations received by the Foundation help a wide variety of patient needs and community initiatives. Uninsured women in the community are able to receive mammograms through grants. When an illness has drained energy and finances, Spartanburg Regional Hospice patients are able to have a holiday meal with their family at Thanksgiving and Easter.

With community grants, the Foundation promotes wellness throughout the Upstate by giving funds to non-profit organizations focusing on health. These grants have spearheaded initiatives including behavioral health counseling, teen pregnancy prevention, and an all-terrain medical vehicle for a local fire department.

I'm proud to live and work in a community that sets health as a priority.

HOPE MADE POSSIBLE BY YOU

Thank you for being our partner!

Your generosity helped Spartanburg Regional Foundation strengthen our healthcare system to make a community wide impact on health and wellness. With your help, 2015 was a success.

Among the highlights:

- Over $9 million in early gift commitments were made to the Gibbs Cancer Center expansion at Pelham Medical Center – providing an exciting launch for this critical new resource that will serve the growing number of people in our community in need of cancer care.
- SRHS employees gave back a record $1.3 million in contributions to the Foundation to support a broad array of patient needs as well as initiatives to improve overall health and wellness.
- Our foundation invested more than $3 million to impact health including awarding over $680,000 in grants to innovative programs at SRHS and at area nonprofit partners.

Every day, we remember that we exist to support the needs of individuals in our community facing serious health issues. It is our priority to ensure that area residents have access to the best healthcare treatment, experience, and outcomes.

You – as our partner – are making a tremendous positive impact on the health of others.

We are grateful for your support in 2015 and are excited about opportunities in the coming year.

BUILDING BUY-IN

During his years with Milliken & Company, G. Ashley Allen worked with associates who were starting families and led efforts to recruit young professionals. Along with good schools and a thriving arts scene, according to Allen, there was one factor that helped make Spartanburg attractive: quality health care.

Asked to join the Spartanburg Regional Foundation Board of Trustees in 2004, he saw a unique opportunity to promote health in the community while raising the profile of Spartanburg as a place for people to settle and raise a family. The success of Spartanburg Regional, he said, “was very important for the community, and I wanted to help.”

Spartanburg is a special place to Allen. He moved here with his wife, Gwin, in 1969. Their three children – Sarah, Winthrop, and Ashley – grew up in Spartanburg. And Allen enjoyed a long and successful career with Milliken. He first worked in chemical research before moving into corporate management. From 2005-2008, he served as President and CEO of the company.

Qualities that made Allen successful as a business leader have carried over to his role as chair of the Spartanburg Regional Foundation Board of Trustees.

“You’ve got to understand that Ashley is a scientist – he has a PhD in chemistry – and he’s a businessman, too,” said immediate past-chair Jamie Hodge. “He’s such an analytical thinker.”

Allen is “so measured,” Hodge added. “He goes over all the scenarios in his mind. He’s confident in his decision-making, but he doesn’t make decisions in a vacuum. He brings in the stakeholders and wants their opinion. He’s a real big-picture guy.”

All this is reflected in the way Allen talks about his vision for the Foundation board. While individual fundraising objectives make philanthropic board work exciting, he stresses the importance of overall organizational practices – transparency, efficient processes, fiduciary responsibilities to donors, and recruiting valuable board members for the future.

While there are parallels to his leadership in business, Allen points out key differences in leading a board. “In a foundation, you’re not the boss,” he said. “All the people on the board are volunteers. You have to have rapport and buy-in.”

Allen said he works closely with board committees to align priorities and achieve consensus. And he values links with Regional Foundation’s Heart, Cancer, and Hospice Division boards. “A great deal of the passion and knowledge for fundraising comes from the division boards,” he said. Noting that division board chairs are part of his executive committee, he added, “I think we have a very effective structure for our boards.”

He is pleased about the role Regional Foundation is playing in bringing new ideas and new services to Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System.

As a chemist, Allen is inspired by the growth in research at Gibbs Cancer Center. “Technology and knowledge about cancer are developing so rapidly that it’s providing opportunities for places like Spartanburg Regional to commit to focused research. It’s exciting to have that.”

He’s proud of the Spartanburg Regional Hospice Home, which the board was raising money for when Allen joined in 2004.

“Other areas, as well – funds for patients in financial need, grants to healthcare system and to community organizations, funding for technology and equipment upgrades – are vital to the strength of Spartanburg Regional,” Allen said.

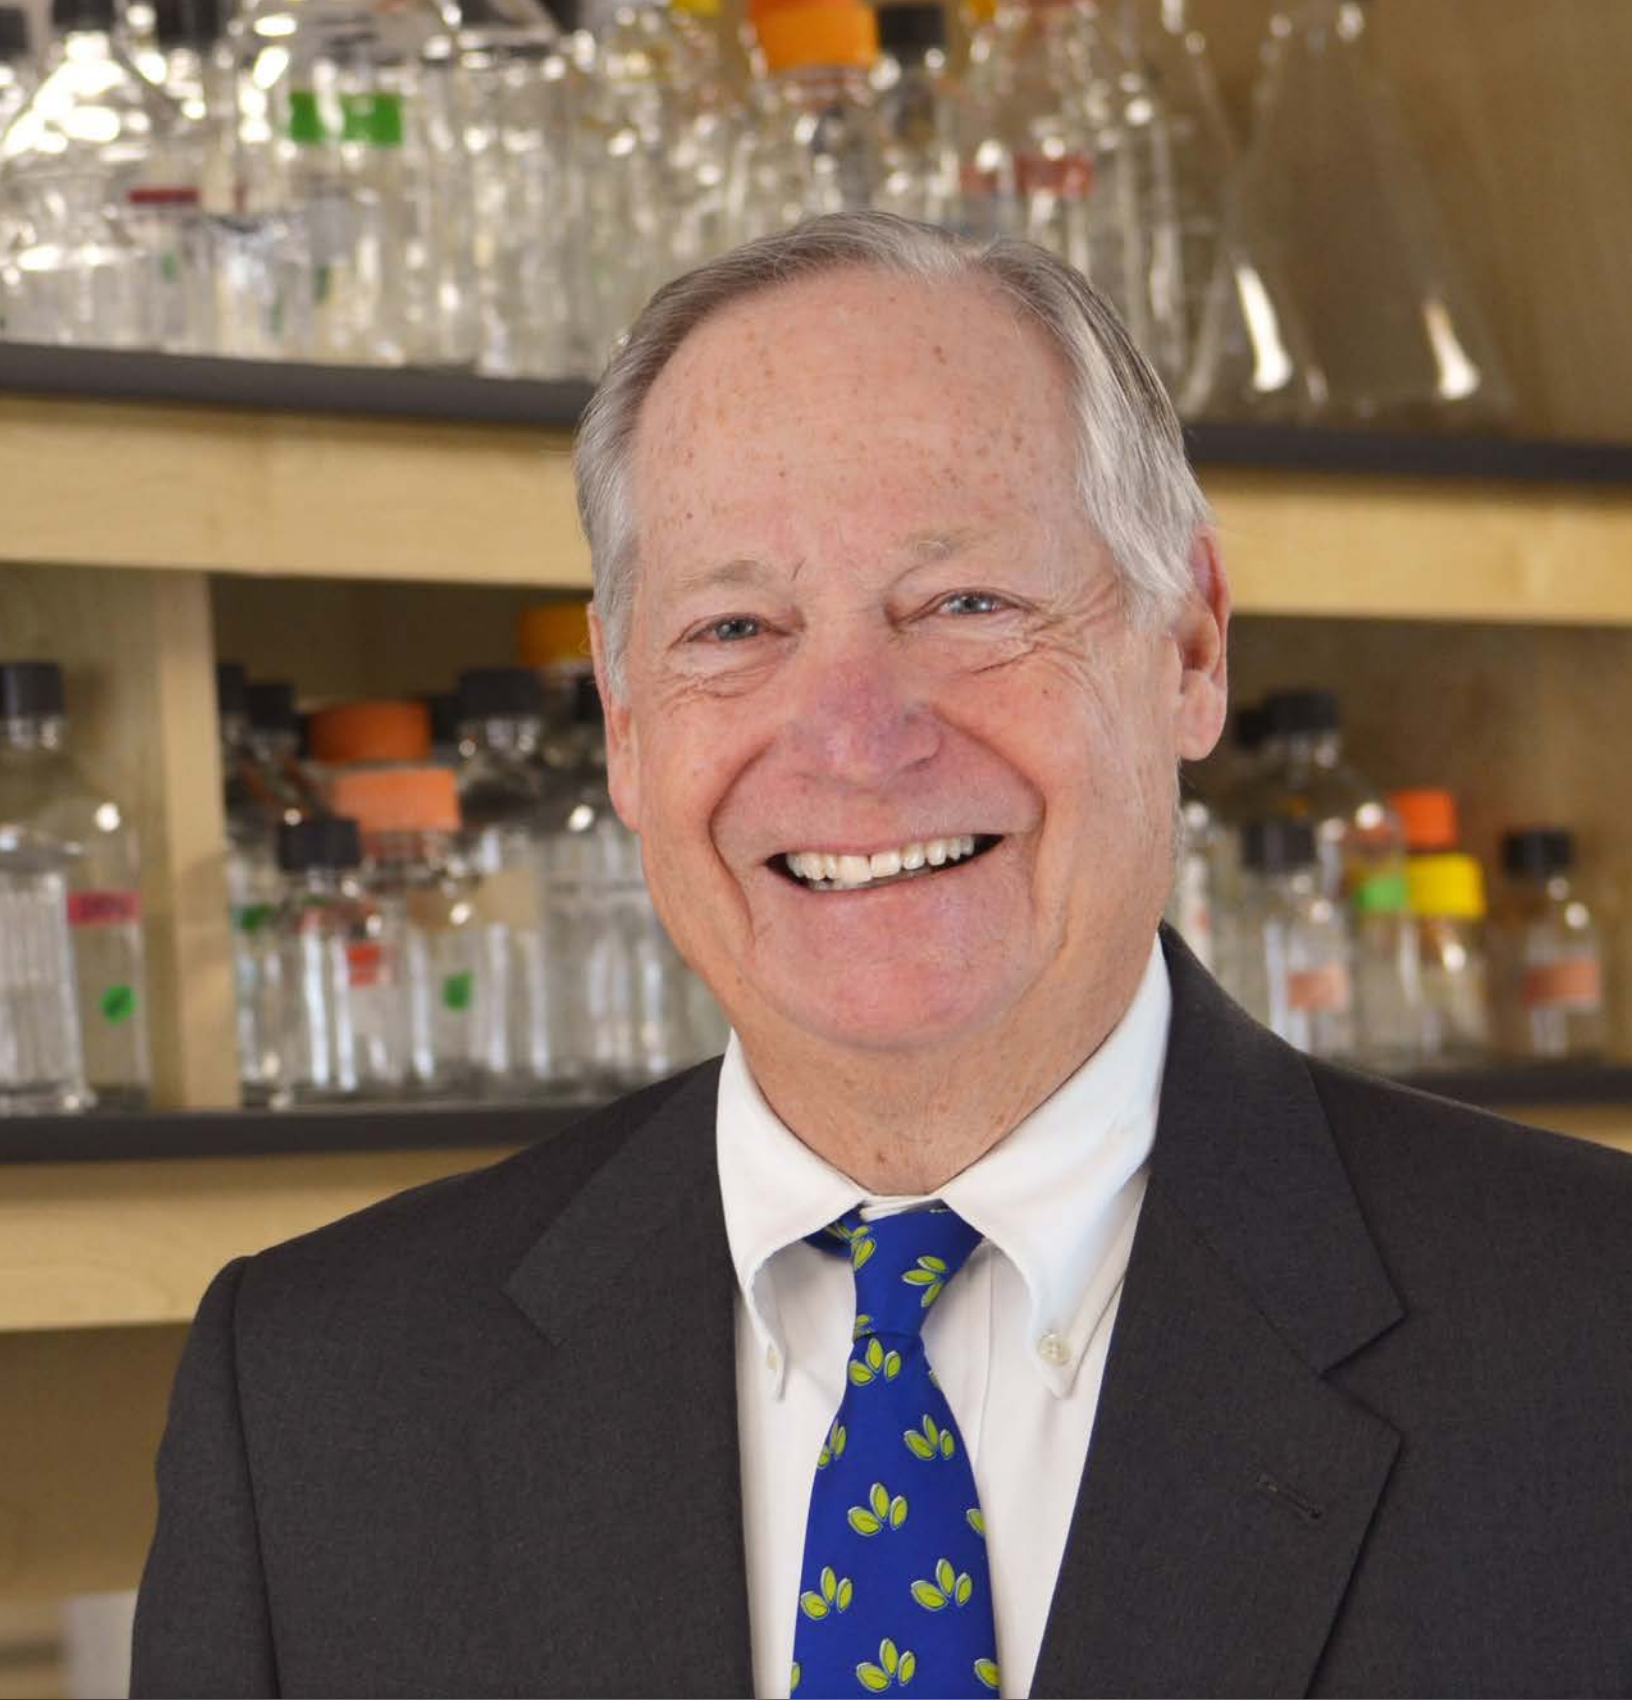

Health care is in a time of extraordinary change and Allen points to challenges that lie ahead for Spartanburg Regional. “The system will continue to look to the community for leadership and philanthropic support,” he said.

Allen is optimistic. “If we continue to value our donors and Spartanburg Regional continues to provide the kind of excellent service people know they can count on, then great things will happen.”

Denise Cozzoli,
Employee Donor

COMMITTED TO GIVING

Denise Cozzoli takes pride in her work as compliance coordinator for Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System. But, for her, it's about more than individual effort. She identifies with the institution and its mission. And she cares about her co-workers.

For these reasons, she has been a dedicated donor to the annual Employee Campaign. And not surprisingly, one of the programs Cozzoli has supported through the years is the Employee Emergency Fund, which provides short-term financial assistance for employees in need.

When Cozzoli started at Spartanburg Regional in 1990, she managed the business office and led a team of more than 45 staff members. She worked with employees who battled serious illnesses or whose spouses were in poor health.

"They had real financial issues," she recalled recently. "We don't think about employees suffering, but they can, just like anyone else."

Over the years, Cozzoli has spread her donations among numerous funds. She has had friends and family who received care at Spartanburg Regional as heart or cancer patients. She's known people who died in hospice care. The heart, cancer, and hospice divisions of the Foundation have each benefited from her generosity. "I'm interested in so many areas of the system," Cozzoli said. "I wish I had enough money to do more for all of them."

Foundation Executive Director Kristy Caradori said that people like Cozzoli are the backbone of the Employee Campaign. "The contributions of employees across all areas of the system are really impressive – especially those who, like Denise, give year after year. It speaks to their commitment to Spartanburg Regional and the patients we serve."

In turn, Cozzoli believes that employees feel good about their donations to the Foundation because they know where it's going. They know it's going to help someone and that resources will be available here if they ever need it.

Cozzoli is proud of the many improvements she has seen in her 25 years at Spartanburg Regional and the expanded treatments that are now available. She believes physical additions and upgrades – including Gibbs Cancer Center, Regional Outpatient Center, and the Montgomery Tower – have transformed the public image of Spartanburg Regional from "the county hospital" to a modern, top-flight healthcare system.

Behind-the-scenes aspects of the system have changed a great deal, too. When Cozzoli began work at Spartanburg Regional, the business office was only just beginning its conversion to an electronic billing system. She helped lead that process before going to work in the compliance arena, where federal regulations over matters such as privacy have become more stringent and complex.

Cozzoli is pleased that she has had the opportunity to make Spartanburg Regional stronger through both her work and her contributions to the Foundation, and she is sure that she's not alone. "Spartanburg Regional employees," she says, "have a sense of purpose, a sense of pride in our community, and especially the role of our employer."

A LEGACY OF GIVING

Harrison Chapman's fascination with medicine and with helping people began with watching her father.

A graduate of Johns Hopkins University, John Armstrong Shackelford, MD practiced medicine in Martinsville, Va.

"After school, she would go into the operating room and watch him operate," Sarah "Sadie" Chapman said of her mother. "She could do that, but she couldn't watch my leg get sewn up when I got kicked by a horse."

Harrison Chapman moved to Spartanburg in 1950 after marrying the late Robert Hett Chapman, Jr., and during the ensuing 60 years, she built a legacy of community service, philanthropy, and volunteerism. In 1991, Harrison Chapman was named to the first Spartanburg Regional Foundation Board of Trustees, and her support of the hospital system ranged from financial donations to giving generously of her time.

"They would say no moss grows under her feet," John Chapman said of his mother's volunteering.

"She was always busy, always helping someone."

Rob Chapman, son of Harrison Chapman

"She was always busy, always helping someone," son Rob Chapman added.

Harrison Chapman died Oct. 28, 2014, at age 84, but she continues to help others.

In their mother's honor, Rob, John, and Sadie Chapman have established the Harrison Chapman Fund, which is used to improve the health and wellness of heart patients.

The fund helps patients who can't afford the cardiac rehab, which is a medically monitored fitness and wellness program. Typically, 12-16 patients per month qualify for the Harrison Chapman Fund to receive financial assistance for cardiac rehab.

"There are a lot of people out there who need that rehab, but they just can't afford it," Rob Chapman said. "We just hope it helps a lot of people. That's what mother would want to do."

Bob Brown, Director of Outpatient Cardiology Services, said the fund is already making a difference in people's lives.

"The Chapman Fund means so much to us because with these funds we are able to provide lifestyle modification education for our patients," he said. "We are blessed to have a foundation that is so proactive with our patients, and is able to connect us with donors who are passionate to help better our community."

CLIMBING FOR A CURE

In every sense, John Cash likes to stay on the move.

An endurance athlete since high school, he has run marathons and has been an avid cyclist for the past 20 years. In his career, he worked his way up in business until he wanted a change. In 1999, he and his wife, Diane, decided to buy Nature's Storehouse, a health food shop in Tryon, N.C. And in his personal life, Cash has jumped on opportunities to make a difference for others.

During a 2006 cycling expedition in Italy, Cash had the chance to ride with Lance Armstrong, famed rider, cancer survivor, and founder of the Livestrong Foundation. "What struck me was he had such a passion for finding a cure for cancer," Cash recalled. "I came back home with an empty feeling. I thought, 'Why don't I get involved with something to make a difference?'"

Marrying his love for cycling with a desire to help – and building on the relationships he's developed as a small business owner – Cash established the Climb to Conquer Cancer. It's held annually, the third weekend of April, and involves 10 bicycle trips up and down the Saluda Grade.

The event raises about $5,000 each year.

Proceeds support the Gibbs Cancer Center Survivorship Fund. This fund addresses psychosocial needs of recovering cancer patients – an often overlooked aspect of overall wellness, as Community Outreach Coordinator Stacey Kindall explained. Many patients are so worried about work and finances or the toll of their illness on loved ones that "they put aside self-care. This is very important because stress impacts cancer recurrence."

John Cash cycles on Skyuka Mountain Road near Columbus, N.C.

In addition to boosting their emotional well-being, patients may also take part in cooking classes and fitness programs that support healthy living.

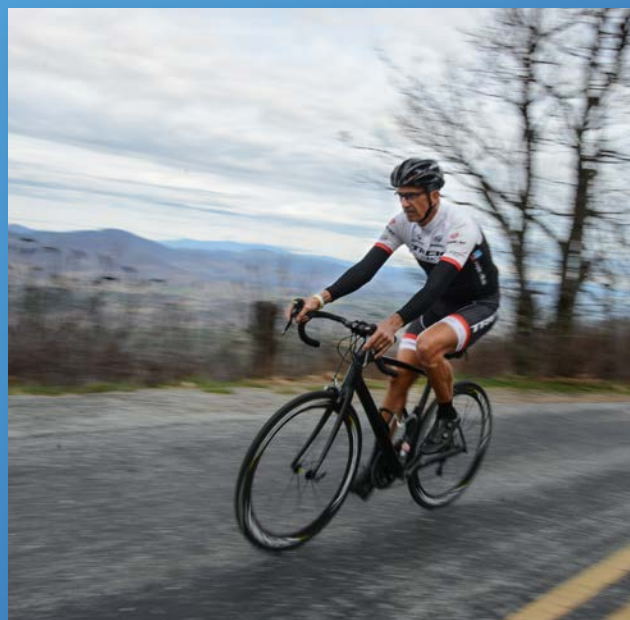

"These dollars go a long, long way and affect the lives of our patients," Kindall said.

Cash's dedication is motivated in part by the death of his son, Justin, in 2010. "After my son died, my philosophy on life and my priorities changed a lot," Cash says.

He also remains inspired by Armstrong. While Armstrong's cycling career and association with the Livestrong Foundation ended in scandal, Cash notes that Armstrong continues to correspond with and make personal visits to cancer patients, usually with little or no fanfare. It's an approach that Cash emulates: he makes frequent visits to Gibbs Cancer Center & Research Institute to spend time with patients, striking up conversations or offering simple words of encouragement.

"He comes to be of service to someone in some capacity," Kindall said. "And that's what he accomplishes."

For Cash, it's just a matter of doing the right thing. He said, "When God said, 'Love your neighbor as yourself,' he knew what he was doing."

SPECIAL INITIATIVES

“Over the years, there have been so many great causes. It makes me feel good to give back.”

Employee Giving: The Strongest Year Yet

Employees of Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System contributed more than $1.3 million in 2015 to help patients. The bulk of these contributions came during Spartanburg Regional Foundation’s annual Employee Campaign.

Several of the top initiatives supported by employees in 2015 included:

- The Gibbs Cancer Center & Research Institute expansion at Pelham, which will provide additional care and research options for patients facing a cancer diagnosis.
- Patient special needs funds, which provide patients with financial support to cover basic needs.
- A new early admissions transitional unit that will improve the flow of admitted patients from the Emergency Center to appropriate venues of care.

“Staff members have stepped up time and time again to support causes at the Foundation,” says Mark Aycock, SRHS Chief Operating Officer. “Our employees work hard to deliver the best care possible, and their contribution to the Foundation is another way they demonstrate their commitment to patient outcomes and experience.”

Patrons of Hope Society of 1921 Donor Appreciation Gala

The Patrons of Hope Gala is a time to celebrate the year in giving. In 2015, donors who gave $1,250 or more during the previous year were honored. The late South Carolina novelist Pat Conroy delivered the keynote address, reflecting on influences on his writing and his latest novel.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the foundation's Lifetime Achievement Award to Judy Bradshaw. For many years, Bradshaw has demonstrated her commitment to helping others through her unwavering support of children in the pediatric rehabilitation program. Bradshaw's service to others and her comments to the audience about faith and family commanded a standing ovation.

Congratulations to Lifetime Achievement Award Winner, Judy Bradshaw.

Wings of Hope

The release of some 200 butterflies was the highlight of the 2015 Wings of Hope event. Donors purchased the opportunity to release a butterfly to celebrate completion of treatment for former patients or to honor the memory of a loved one. In six years, the event has raised more than $147,000 for the Cancer, Heart and Hospice Divisions.

CANCER DIVISION

An Uplifting Event

In 2012, April Sloan felt two lumps in her left breast. The growths were biopsied and removed. They weren't cancer.

A year later, when another lump appeared, she was diagnosed with cancer. Sloan and her team of doctors fought for her life.

In October, Sloan shared her story of survival during the annual Uplifting Event luncheon. The crowd rose to its feet after she delivered her remarks.

The 2015 luncheon was the largest to date, raising more than $140,000 for mammography assistance and the Missy Rowland Turner Memorial Fund. Money raised at the event helped navigate 1,633 women through mammography assistance.

The new Gibbs Cancer Center & Research Institute at Pelham will be easily accessible to over 5.5 million people.

Since its inception in 2007, the Betty Ann Moore Colon Cancer Screening Fund has provided more than 200 screenings for uninsured or underinsured people in Spartanburg County.

Gibbs Cancer Center and Research Institute Announces Plans for $65 Million Expansion

The largest fundraising effort in Spartanburg Regional Foundation history will transform cancer care.

In November 2015, Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System announced plans for a $65 million expansion of services at the Gibbs Cancer Center & Research Institute on the Pelham Medical Center campus.

A $15 million capital campaign, co-chaired by Marsha Gibbs, Lindsay Webster, and Drs. Jay Bearden and Julian Josey, is underway, with more than $9.5 million raised to date. Four local families have made seven-figure gifts, accounting for $7 million.

“Once people have been treated here, they realize how lucky we are and they want to take the next step for expansion.”

Marisa Cecil Joins the Foundation

Marisa Cecil joined Spartanburg Regional Foundation as a Director of Philanthropy after serving the health system in other roles for more than five years. She works with physicians and corporate partners in raising funds to support breast health. She has a lead role in An Uplifting Event, an annual luncheon that supports the Bearden-Josey Center for Breast Health.

“Because I have been personally affected by breast cancer, I care deeply about this cause. I am also passionate about raising breast cancer awareness and the importance of early detection in our community,” Cecil says. “I look forward to advocating efforts to prevent cancer and improve outcomes for Spartanburg Regional patients.”

In 2015, Spartanburg Regional Foundation funded a life-saving resource at numerous locations throughout Spartanburg County.

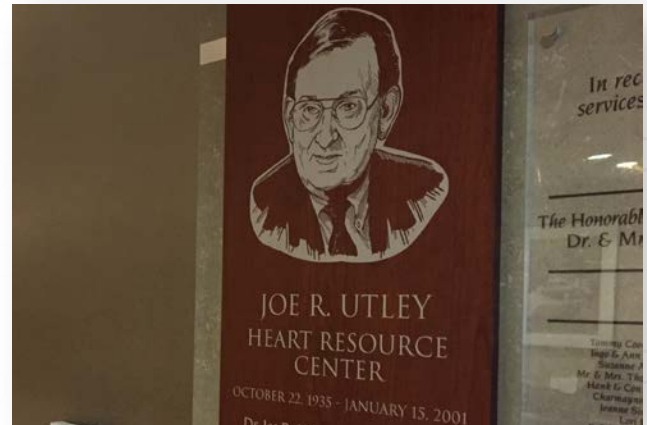

An automated external defibrillator, or AED, is a small, portable device used to treat sudden cardiac arrest.

The AEDs were placed at Croft State Park, Spartanburg County School District 2 elementary schools, Camp Mary Elizabeth, Meeting Street Academy, the City of Inman Fire Department, and the Boys and Girls Clubs of the Upstate.

Patients visited the SRHS Heart Wellness Center 9,100 times.

Joe R. Utley Resource Center Update

Opened in 2010, the Joe R. Utley Heart Resource Center continues to educate the community about heart disease and healthy lifestyles.

With support from the Spartanburg Regional Foundation, “The Joe” offers health screenings and educational presentations at events and community centers throughout the SRHS service area. Last year, center staff reached more than 15,000 people.

“By raising awareness about heart disease, providing screenings for underserved populations, and promoting proper nutrition and fitness, we know that we are helping people make changes that support strong heart health,” said Center Coordinator Lori Boyd. “We are grateful to Spartanburg Regional Foundation donors for helping to save lives in our community.”

Holiday Meals

Holidays are an important time to enjoy the company of friends and family – but can be especially stressful for families with a loved one in Hospice. Spartanburg Regional Hospice supports patients and families by providing meals at Easter and Thanksgiving.

More than 220 meals were delivered in 2015. “This is a popular program for our donors, and we believe it is an important way to ease the burden on families going through a difficult time,” said Director of Philanthropy Shelly Sinclair.

Kim Ross, Director of Hospice and Palliative Care

Kim Ross’ first calling in health care came in 1998 as a part-time secretary in rehabilitation. Now, as Director of Hospice and Palliative Care, a personal tragedy gives her special insight into helping patients and families deal with grief.

“I guess going through death with my sister, I’ve never really been afraid of it,” Ross said.

Bethany Groce died of cancer on Jan. 1, 2003, at age 17.

“I didn’t know it 10 years ago, but it put me in a position to understand,” Ross said.

Before taking on her new role in 2015, Ross spent the past 10 years as Director of Support Services. In 2011, she also became Director of Medical Staff Services, a position in which she continues to serve. She said coming into such a firmly established, well-respected hospice and palliative care program has been a blessing.

“I don’t feel worthy to work with these great people,” Ross said. “It’s just a different level of compassion.”

GRANTS

"Spartanburg is fortunate many nonprofits and health system programs working to improve health in our community. We are grateful to donors who enable us to meet needs and promote advances in treatment."

- Garrow Crowley, Chair of Spartanburg Regional Foundation Grants Committee

In 2015, the Board of Trustees of the Spartanburg Regional Foundation approved a total of $688,118 in grants to Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System and community organizations committed to the health and wellness of Upstate residents. The Foundation named 26 recipients at a ceremony held in June at the Piedmont Club in Spartanburg. All grants are funded entirely by donations to the Foundation and will support programs at Spartanburg Regional Healthcare System and throughout the Upstate community.

Congratulations to our 2015 Spartanburg Regional Foundation grant recipients:

Brainwave Optimization

The Spartanburg Regional Center for Health and Healing integrates modern medicine with established practices from around the world. Programs focus on mind-body wellness strategies, including meditation, small-group discussion, imagery, massage, physical movement and mindful eating.

The Center recently added Brainwave Optimization, a cutting-edge technology that enables patients to observe their own brainwave patterns through a real-time acoustical mirroring process and visual graphs. Over the course of seven, two-hour sessions, clients "reset" their mental balance so that the body and mind dynamically and optimally respond to life's ups and downs.

Thanks to $53,290 in funding from Spartanburg Regional Foundation, the Center for Health and Healing was able to make Brainwave Optimization available to more local residents and to provide sessions free of charge for a group of 10 breast cancer survivors. Participants documented improved sleep and lower levels of mood disturbance – important aspects of overall wellness.

"Brainwave Optimization is showing really exciting results for our clients," said Center for Health and Healing Manager Hunter Mahon. "We are grateful for the Foundation's support of innovative approaches to healing, patient empowerment, and mind-body health."

AccessHealth

Since 2010, AccessHealth Spartanburg has been working to make quality healthcare a reality for low income, uninsured residents of Spartanburg County.

Too often, when uninsured patients are sick – even with relatively minor illnesses – they head to the emergency room to receive care. This is the least effective and most expensive solution. By connecting uninsured patients to a primary medical home, AccessHealth significantly reduces costs for the healthcare system, while significantly improving health outcomes.

A $67,096 grant from Spartanburg Regional Foundation has enabled AccessHealth to partner with other social service organizations in Spartanburg County to enroll and serve more patients while maximizing resources in our community. "This grant from Spartanburg Regional Foundation is helping us to reach more people in need and to link patients to a continuum of healthcare services," said AccessHealth Director Carey Rothschild.
